

Chapter 4 - The Internet And Telecommunications

Persons grouped around a fire or candle for warmth or light are less able to pursue independent thoughts, or even tasks, than people supplied with electric light. In the same way, the social and educational patterns latent in automation are those of self-employment and artistic autonomy.

[illegible]

The World of Telecommunications - The Backbone of the Practice of Law

Introduction

Trends Benefits and Goals of Communications

Digital Information Channels

Wireless Solutions

Communications and Remote Access Software

Computer Telephony

Conclusion

The Internet - The Most Powerful Communication Tool of All Time

Introduction

Surveys

Strategic Internet Legal Advantages

Connecting to the Internet

Type of Connections to an Internet Service Provider (ISP)

Considerations for choosing an ISP

Internet Basics - The Components

E-mail

World Wide Web

Newsgroups

Listservs

Internet Relay Chat

FTP
Other Components
Netiquette & FAQ's
Searching the Internet
Tips on Searching
Agents or Bots
WWW Sites - Legal, Business & Other
Software and Hardware for the Internet
Browsers
Other Software
Internet Hardware
Building a Web Site
Outsourcing
Web Content
Marketing Your Site
Ethics and the Internet
Intranet and Extranets
Conclusion	